AN EPICURIAN ADVENTURE

The vineyards of the Auxerrois

Burgundy at the gates of Paris

When you find Chardonnay and Pinot Noir rubbing shoulders with snails and gougères....there's no doubt about it, you're in Burgundy!

Discover the art of fine living in true Auxerrois style. With a world-renowned, centuries-old wine-growing heritage and an equally rich gastronomic tradition... Experience everything about our wonderful region.

Thanks to its waterways the vineyards of the Auxerrois region has for centuries supplied its finest wines, via Paris, to the capital cities of Europe.

Archaeological excavations at Escolives-Sainte-Camille, just a few kilometres from Auxerre, revealed a bas-relief showing a bunch of grapes dating from the 2nd century A.D. This discovery indicates that the vineyards around Auxerre are the oldest known in the region.

The cradle of a large number of appellations, the vineyards are spread throughout a dozen villages which have kept their traditional wine-grower's architecture: Irancy, Saint-Bris-le-Vineux, Chitry, Coulanges-la-Vineuse, and Vincelles (which means "Wine Cellar")...

The typical Burgundy cépages (grape varieties) are cultivated here: Chardonnay, Pinot Noir, Aligoté, Gamay, César...It is at Saint-Bris, astonishingly, that the Sauvignon grape produces a very aromatic white wine.

a different perspective:

BISHOP SAINT-GERMAIN L'AUXERROIS

The most illustrious bishop of Auxerre was Saint Germain (Bishop of Auxerre from 418 AD until his death in 448 AD), a man of faith who was also an able politician. In Auxerre, he started the movement to build the monasteries that surround the town and that make up a “holy wall”.

He left his mark far beyond the town, notably the famous church of Saint Germain l'Auxerrois in the 1st arrondissement of Paris close to the Louvre, bears his name. There are numerous churches named after Saint Germain l'Auxerrois all over France. In Auxerre we have a real treasure of our national heritage that bears his name: the beautiful and magnificent Saint Germain Abbey.

SAINT GERMAIN ABBEY

This monastic complex, located outside the fortifications, was founded by Queen Clotilde in the 5th century. Necropolis of the bishops of Auxerre, the abbey was at the height of its fame in the ninth century when it housed the prestigious school of Auxerre, which was one of the centres of the Carolingian Renaissance. This monument is witness to sixteen centuries of the history of Auxerre. Although composite, it offers an architectural ensemble of great interest. Its Carolingian crypts of the 9th century, built around the tomb of Saint Germain are decorated with murals remarkable for their condition and age given that they are the oldest in France.

The abbey church is Gothic in style. In its fore-nave and part of the nave, which were demolished in the nineteenth century, were found interesting remains such as sarcophagi dating from the sixth to the ninth century. The chapter room is from the 12th century, the cellar from the 14th century, the classical style cloister was rebuilt in the 17th century.

The 12th century tower of Saint Jean overlooks the buildings with its imposing spire of convex eight-sided stone.

- › Place Saint-Germain in Auxerre
- › Open every day in July and August. Closed on Tuesdays from September to June.
- › Information on the Abbey's opening hours are available on 03 86 18 02 90 or by visiting www.auxerre.fr

THE CLOCK TOWER AND ITS ASTRONOMICAL CLOCK

The clock Tower was built in the 15th century on the basis of a tower from the old Gallo-Roman fortified city. First used as a prison, it was turned into a clock and belfry in 1483. A fire devastated the tower in 1825 but it was restored and largely rebuilt identically between 1891 and 1893 by the great French architect Paul Boeswillwald. Attached to the tower, a chamber houses the clock's mechanism which has been working since 1483, made by the ingenious clockmaker Jean. The clock's distinctive features are the two hands: showing the time according to the sun as well as the phases of the moon.

SAINT-ETIENNE CATHEDRAL

A masterpiece of Gothic art, Saint Etienne Cathedral has just one tower. Its façade is worth a few minutes of your time to have a look at the various sculptures that depict the life of the time. The 15th and 16th century stained glass windows are also worthy of a close look. A final tour down to the crypt to look at the extremely rare painting of Christ on horseback, and to the Treasury, which holds a number of collection pieces, including The Deposition from the Cross by Luca Penni.

SAINT-PIERRE CHURCH AND THE WINEMAKER'S DISTRICT

This church combines the use of Gothic style, Renaissance style and Classic style. It displays on its façade the patron saints of the district's brotherhoods (butchers and wine-makers) for whom it was the parish. Saint-Pierre district was the winemakers' until the phylloxera crisis happened and destroyed the vineyards of the region of Auxerre

- › Open every day from 10 am to 5 pm.

SAINT-EUSÈBE CHURCH

Seen from the outside, the building presents an heterogeneous profile with a Romanesque bell, a 13th century Gothic nave, and a 16th century Renaissance choir. The interior holds a number of wonderful surprises for visitors: paintings that decorate the vaults, and a magnificent set of windows that light up the Renaissance Choir.

- › Place Saint-Eusèbe in Auxerre,
- › Free entrance everyday, all year, from 9.00am to 6.00pm.

Cadet Roussel

His real name was Guillaume Joseph Roussel, and was called "Cadet" because he was the middle child of the family. Born in 1743 in the Jura region, he settled in Auxerre in 1763 as a domestic and a lackey, then became a bailiff's clerk. He then bought a position and became a bailiff himself.

"An eccentric and crazy figure, he made a lasting impression during his time in Auxerre! "

Come the Revolution, Cadet Roussel became a Jacobin. One of his political enemies, the Chevalier Chenu du Souchet, composed the famous song to mock him. That song was adopted as a marching song by the soldiers of the Revolution in 1792.

« Cadet Roussel has three houses

Which don't have beams or rafters
They're there for the swallows
What would you say about Cadet Roussel
No ! No ! No ! But really,
Cadet Roussel is a very good boy. »

IN THE FOOTSTEPS OF CADET ROUSSEL

Follow in the footsteps of Cadet Roussel and discover the treasures in the historic centre of Auxerre.

› www.escolives-ste-camille.fr

THE SO CALLED "EIFFEL" BRIDGE IN MONÉTEAU

Until 1879, the village was split into two distinct parts by the River Yonne. Two fords at each end of the bend in the Yonne allowed people to cross from one bank to the other. The first suspension bridge was built in 1853. But, about 1905, the single lane of the bridge was no longer able to cope with the traffic and it was decided to build a much larger metal bridge, which was completed in 1913. This bridge is now an historic monument and has become a symbol of the town.

There are numerous classified historical monuments at: Appoigny, Bleigny-le-Carreau, Branches, Charbuy, Chevannes, Coulanges-la-Vineuse, Escamps, Escolives-Sainte-Camille, Gy l'Evêque, Irancy, Jussy, Lindry, Perrigny, Quenne, Saint-Bris-le-Vineux, Vaux, Villeneuve-Saint-Salves, Vincelles, Vincelottes...

MUSIC FESTIVAL « GARÇON LA NOTE ! » celebrating its 20th birthday!

Created in 2001 by the Office de Tourisme de l'auxerrois, this music festival has always taken place on the terraces of Auxerre's cafés, and since 2006 in the cafés in the surrounding communes.

The concept is simple : an evening, a bar, a concert !

« Garçon La Note ! » runs throughout the Summer period : There are more than 50 dates in Auxerre from the 1st of July to the 31st of August (Monday to Saturday).

Its speciality is to move from terrace to terrace and proposes a different concert every night. Driven by this success, this concept has been taken over in some other cities in Burgundy (Dijon, Sens, Nevers, Chalon-sur-Saône, Cluny...), and even in Dax !

› Find the festival program and every information on www.ot-auxerre.fr and on the Facebook page dedicated to the festival www.facebook.com/GLNAuxerre

ARTEFACT

Artefact is a ceramic workshop located in the historic heart of Auxerre. A place of creation, production and instruction for all, this is the ideal place to make, model, engrave, decorate, paint and create. The two ceramic designers welcome young and old alike to their workshops throughout the year.

The workshop is part of the Auxerrois art trades circuit set up by the Community of the Auxerrois and the Auxerrois Tourist Office in partnership with the Chamber of Trades and Crafts. Curious and passionate people can find out about the skills and know-how of the craftsmen of the Auxerrois.
